

TULUNI GREETINGS

July 7, 2020

I extend my warm Tuluni greetings to the people of Nagaland, specially to our Sumi brothers and sisters.

Tuluni festival symbolises fraternity, solidarity, and sharing. It is celebrated to rejoice the most abundant and fruitful season of the year.

Although this great festival is being celebrated in an extraordinary Covid-19 situation this year with restrictions, I am hopeful that the festive spirit of newness and bonding would restore our faith and help us to overcome the difficult time.

May Tuluni festival remind us of our ancestors who found strength in one another, in good and bad times.

I hope the Sumis will come together as a community and continue building and leading the nagas from the front to overcome the challenge we are facing today.
